

Funded through The Ministry of Advanced Education, Skills and Training’s recent investment in WIL and on behalf of ACE-WIL BC, SFU is leading a project to develop resources to enhance the availability of professional development opportunities. This will include a series of professional development webinars, an online professional development resource hub, and a WIL learning and teaching resource. A summary of the project and data collection opportunities is included below.

We’re encouraging all ACE-WIL BC members to participate in this project by completing two online surveys – one focused on professional development interests and preferences, and one focused on WIL learning and teaching. Find links to the surveys below.

15 minute survey on WIL learning and teaching

Multiple responses per institution are encouraged. Please complete the survey at the above link by July 3rd 2020.

Thank you in advance for your participation in this project! Any questions about these projects or your participation can be directed to Natalie Shearer.

Project #111/125 ACE-WIL Professional Development: Course Modules, Resources and Online Community

Part A: Development of a WIL Learning and Teaching resource. This portion of the project will result in the development of a WIL Learning and Teaching resource made available to all ACE-WIL BC members, focused on deepening the knowledge base of learning and teaching practices in WIL.

Part B: Continued Professional Development of Co-op and WIL Practitioners/Educators/Faculty. This portion of the project will result in (1) a series of professional development webinars to support ACE-WIL BC members, and (2) a curated set of online resources for professional development to be shared with ACE-WIL members on the ACE-WIL Resource Hub.
